Rulebook Update

(New text bolded for clarity)

10.2

Some abilities, whether continuous or effect-generating, are only active while certain conditions are fulfilled, e.g. "While you are furthest from victory..." A continuous ability is active when its conditions are met and inactive when conditions are not met. Some conditional abilities have limited uses, which are often voluntarily activated (e.g., "once per turn you may..."). These types of conditional abilities are always active until they are used, at which point they become inactive until the start of the next turn. This switching between active and inactive does not generate effects and cannot be responded to. For abilities that generate effects based on conditions, see Triggered Effects 26.0.

36.10 Copying Bold-Faced Abilities

(Clarity: both the title of 36.10 and the example given should refer to "Bold-Faced Abilities" and not "special abilities")
